Lunch Savings at Temecula's Bank of Mexican Food

By Terri Lyn Jones

On my quest to find inexpensive authentic meals in Temecula, I struck gold at this quaint restaurant on the corner of Main and Front streets. I wandered into the Bank of Mexican Food on a Monday to check out their lunch specials.

By its name and appearance, you know this building did not start out serving authentic Mexican food. According to their website, the building opened in 1914 as the First National Bank of Temecula. It was also the site of the first bank robbery in Riverside County in 1930. It became a restaurant in 1978. The history and old photographs decorating the walls intrigued me enough to try the cuisine.

I sat down and not even a minute later, my server placed warm tortilla chips and salsa in front of me. I ordered ice water, served quickly with a lemon slice. This may not seem like a big deal, but when I'm saving money by not ordering tea or soda, I like subtle touches like lemons in my water.

I ordered the #8 special: Mini Bean Burrito and Taco with ground beef with beans and rice. If you like cheese (and as a former Wisconsinite, I do), you'll love this dish. Shredded cheese is tucked nicely into the taco with shredded lettuce and diced tomatoes. Melted cheese decorates the burrito and beans. The taco shell was beautifully misshapen as only a fresh taco shell can be; no straight edges like Taco Bell. After a few bites, it is perfect size for dipping into beans or salsa. This is what I call "mashability." Can all foods blend together and still taste wonderful? Of course. Not every type of food is like this. But this Mexican food has a perfect mashability factor.

I was not there long. In fact, I ordered my food at noon and I was done, paid up, and in my car by 12:30. This is why The Bank makes a great place for weekday lunches. You can conduct indoor lunch meetings without competing with loud music. If you're not there on business, enjoy the patio bar outside.

Total cost: $8.65. The Bank is no strain on the wallet.

It's located at 28645 Old Town Front Street Temecula, CA 92590. Ph: 951-676-6160. Private room and catering available.

selves. No guilt or culpability was ever assigned to the Club or its members, nor did any single member admit to any neglect or wrongdoing. The courts determined, under the laws of the day, that the disaster had been caused by "an act of God."

The story of the suffering at Jamestown had been page one news across America for months. These legal findings enraged the American people who were already disgusted with the "robber baron" class and soon individual states began to adopt Rylands v. Fletcher, a British common law precedent, into their court systems. Rylands placed into law that a defendant could be held responsible for unnatural use of land, and eventually led to the twentieth century's American legal acceptance of strict liability.

The seemingly impossible cleanup in Johnstown was finally completed. Five years later, there was barely a trace of the tragedy that had claimed thou-
